Manufacturers' Short Lengths Silk Sale A New Idea in Silk Buying at Fordyce's Begins Here Thursday This Week

Our Silk buyer has just returned from an extensive visit to the largest Silk Mills in the East. While at the mills an opportunity was presented to purchase short lengths of the season's newest styles in Silks, nct enough in any of them to make a regular full piece, but ranging from 5 to 12 yards in length. The makers of these Silks, for a quick sale, made a radical price concession on the entire lot. Our Silk buyer quickly took advantage of the opportunity (which usually went to the large department houses in the Eastern cities) to give our patrons a new idea in Silk buying at less than wholesale prices. Of course, the stock is limited. Early shoppers will secure the choice. The patterns and colorings are all new this Spring; many of them not on the market yet.

Any Woman Who is Interested in Silks for Spring or Summer Should be Here Early for These Special Values.

George Washington Had, as Was Appropriate, the Finest House In the National Capital.

COST MUST HAVE BEEN GREAT

From Records It Seems That the First President Either Built or Had In Contemplation Other Habitations-British Respected the Mansion.

Records show that George Washington had in mind the building of another house, or other houses than his home on Capitol Hill. There is no available record to show how much money Washington expended upon his city mansion. The cost must have been considerable in those days of slow travel, when bricks were brought across the ocean in sailing vessels, and when experienced bricklayers were few and able to command very high wages. Although only three stories in height, it was a very large and roomy house. Moreover, it was intended to be the best house in the Federal city, for Washington undoubtedly realized the fact that he was the foremost citizen of the new republic and one of the foremost men in the whole world.

Although now level with the street it is known that the mansion originally stood upon a terrace, ascended by stone steps. The grounds were surrounded by a hedge fence, similar to the hedge which surrounds Mount Vernon estate. The mansion faces east and is parallel with the capitol building. Its front view was over a large level plateau which was bounded by the horizon-tipped hills of Maryland; a plateau upon which Washington expected the Federal city to be built. Washington, Jefferson, Carroll and others purchased substantially all of the best land on the plateau. But their heirs held the land at such speculative prices that homemakers sought the vicinity of the White House instead of the capitol, and the Federal city was builded on the west and northwest part of the city environments. Admiral Wilkes purchased the mansion from the heirs of Washington. and used it as his residence during his lifetime. His heirs sold it to John Talty, an Irish-American tavern-keeper. Talty rented it to numerous prominent society folks, always receiving a high rental for it from them. About forty years ago Talty sold it to a man named Hillman, who used it for a hotel, and it was locally known as "The Hillman House." That owner died, man was in town Tuesday and re- and the residence was sold and resold a number of times, being used the greater part of the time as a boarding house. When the British soldiers captured the Federal city, in 1814, and ravaged it savagely, they so respected the Washington mansion that they did not
